THE NEW WOMAN'S HOSPITAL

PLANS FOR A GROUP OF BUILDINGS IN CENTRAL PARK WEST.

THEY WILL BE ATTRACTIVE ARCHITECTURALLY

AND WILL CONTAIN THE NEWEST

the fact that the Woman's Hospital, now in Lexington and Park aves., between Forty-ninth and Fiftleth sts., would soon remove to the block fronting on Central Park West, between Ninetysecond and Ninety-third sts. For two years the governors of the hospital have recognized the irchased at the cost of $33,000, and plans have been in course of preparation for a building which will cost, when completed, about $1,400,000. The is Charles C. Haight, who has just completed the plans. Work will begin as soon as some additional interior details are approved.

A group of six pavilions connected by broad galleries, three of them on each of the streets and two overlooking the Park, is contemplated in the plans. The object of the architect and managers was to secure the largest amount of sunshine, together with the best ventilation for each pavilion. The main entrance will be through the administration building, which will be in the middle of the Ninety-third-st, end. This structure will be rectangular in form, six stories high, the reception-rooms and the room for the Board of Managers being on the first floor. The next two stories will be occupied as a chapel, in the walls of which will be set cathedral glass windows. The library and museum will occupy the fourth floor, and the two upper floors are for the bedrooms of

On the northwest corner of the plot, and just west of the administration building will be the pavilion for the use of the nurses. This will be rectangular, eleven stories high, with the nurses reception-room and apartments of the head nurse on the first floor. On each of the floors above will be a sitting-room and seven sleeping-rooms, together with lavatories, baths and a staircase. The placing of the nurses' payllion at this point admits of greater space southward for patients where they may enjoy both sunshine and fresh air, and also provides easy and direct access from the and also provides easy and main entrance through the administration building for visitors, thus avoiding the necessity of their intrusion upon any of the wardrooms. An entrance for vehicles, such as ambulances, delivery wagons, etc., is provided between the administration building and the nurses' pavilion, and through this access is afforded to the basement.

The four additional pavilions will be devoted wholly to occupancy by and treatment of patients. The two pavilions overlooking Central Park and the one in Ninety-second-st., near the westerly line of the plot, will be square, and each six stories high, inclusive of the basement. Private patients who can afford to pay for the advantageous situation and privacy will occupy the first two stories of the pavilions on the avenue. Just above these will be two open wards, each with nineteen beds, and on the upper floor of the Ninetysecond-st, corner pavilion will be a solarium, with fifteen windows on the three sides exposed to the sun. The top floor of the Ninety-third-st, corner pavilion will be devoted to the rooms of the ser-

The dispensary, together with the clerk's room and about half a dozen consulting rooms, will octhree stories next above will each have an open ward, each containing nineteen beds. The quarantine for the isolation of patients afflicted with contagious ailments will be on the top floor of this pavilion and only accessible through a single long gallery, while a connecting gallery will be provided

On the Ninety-second-st. side the central pavilion will be circular in form. Open wards containing twenty beds each will take up the space on the three floors. An operating theatre will be provided in the upper portion of this pavilion, together with recovery and other rooms connecting gether with recovery and other rooms connecting. This theatre, or operating room, will be lighted through sixteen windows and a glazed dome. It is believed that it will prove to be one of the lest lighted operating rooms in the country. Private and dining and ward and serving rooms will occupy the space in the long gallery opening southward from the main transverse hall, six beds being provided for each ward on the first three floors. On the fourth floor will be the superintendent's apartments, together with a ward dining-room. Above these on the fifth floor will be the kitchen, with communication by elevators and dumb-waiters with the serving-rooms on every floor in the building. The servants' dining-rooms will also be here.

In the space between the two pavilions overlooking Central Park there will be two nurses' cabinet rooms, two iavatories, two ward rooms, each containing two beds, with operating rooms on four floors, and on the fifth the quarters for the house-keepers and servants. Outside of and directly adjoining each ward will be a lavatory and an examination room.

The laundry, linen rooms, storage apartments

The laundry, lines rooms, storage for food, etc. will be in the basement. The boiler room and furnace and the fans by which the heat may be distributed through the building will be beneath the laundry. The indirect radiating system will be adopted. This consists of fresh air, which having first been introduced through a screen, passes over heated furnaces and is distributed throughout the building by the fans mentioned above.

passes over heated furnaces and is distributed throughout the building by the fains mentioned above.

The style of the elevation is Spanish. The design provides for the use of gray brick with limestone trimmings, cornices and guiters of copper, and a roof of red tiling. The entire structure will be fireproof. The general outlines of the elevation are pleturesque, the only cornamentation being concentrated about the main portal, the larger baleony windows, the upper story and the sky line. The architect, Mr. Haight, has made a careful study of hospital buildings and all the improvements of later years. These improvements require architectural accessories for their proper application and availability, and these Mr. Haight has endeavored to supply in the preparation of his plans. He designed the new Cancer Hospital, as well as others constructed by the city authorities.

Some of those interested in this hospital are among the best-known men and women engaged in philanthropic work in New-York City. John E. Parsons is president of the Board of Governors. Some of his associates are ex-Mayor Edward Cooper, James G. Cannon, Charles N. Talbot, William W. Hoppin, Charles A. Pana, William G. Hamilton, Mathew C. B. Berden, George Bliss, H. M. A PROSPEROUS BENEFIT ASSOCIATION.

EMPLOYES OF STERN BROTHERS HAVE AN EN-TERTAINMENT AND DANCE.

The Mutual Benefit Association of Employes of Stern Brothers gave an entertainment and reception last night in the Central Opera House, which was one of the most successful affairs of its kind ever given in this city. By 8 o'clock the hall of the Opera House was filled, and before the entertainment was over standing room was at a premium. The first part of the evening was taken up with an interesting variety entertailment, given under the direction of Louis Robie. The programme was opened with an overture by Otto Vogler's Vaude-ville Club Orchestra, after which Robb and Lexington gave their burlesque aerial performance. Sam Bernard said some funny things, Madge Ellis imersonated the Bowery girl to perfection, and "the Edisons" gave a thoroughly enjoyable musical act. They were followed by Georgie Parker, and by Layman, "the man with 100 faces."

The Stern Brothers' Employes' Mutual Benefit Association is one of the most flourishing benefit societies in the city. It was established on March 1, 1889, and has for its object the making of weekly started with a fund of $38, raised by subscription, and has received a yearly gift of money from the firm, besides its annual dues. The dues for the women are 20 cents a month, and for the men 50 longer than eight weeks in a year. On the death society at present has a membership of over 500 and has paid out over $20,000 in benefits. The officers of the has paid out over $30,000 in benefits. The officers of the society are: J. H. Brooks, president; R. M. Leach, treasurer: W. H. Morrison, vice-president; J. L. Van Vilet, secretary. The directors are B. Stern, Peter B. Mooney, A. Strauss, A. Mackey, P. J. Montague, E. Bardeleben and H. Jellenik.

AFFAIRS IN BROOKLYN.

THE PRICE OF GAS TO BE RAISED.

The gas war has come to an end. A few months upo the Fulton Municipal Gas Company, General James Jourdan is president, began the cutting of rates by reducing the price from $1.25 a thousand to $1. Most of the other companies fol-lowed the example set to them. The Fulton Mu-nicipal Company in August reduced the price to $0 many miles of pipe in the territory divided among General Jourdan announced yesterday afternoon that on and after becember 1 the price of gas would be increased from 30 cents to $1.2, which is the duft of price in cities the size of Brooklyn. General Jourdan added that the companies had been losing money sching gas at the lower price, and those which had stood out against an Increase finally agreed to it yesterday. He denied that any consolidation of interests had been effected. The companies which have agreed to raise the price are the Fulton Municipal. Clizens, Brooklyn. People's, Metropolitan, Nassau and the Williamsburg. The last-named company stood out against the increase until yesterday. It reduced its price by reason of the competition of the Equity Company. Concessions were made to new customers in many cases by rival companies, and bills have been hard to collect. General Jourdan said he would do all in his power to secure consolidation of gas interests.

TO BE BROOKLYN DAY AT THE FAIR.

The Army and Navy were both represented at the 23d Regiment fair lest evening, and the gray uniforms of the members of the command on guard were relieved by contrast with those of some of ing for bargains. It is expected that to-day will bring out the greatest attendance in the history of the fair, which has now been continued for a fort-night. It will be Brooklyn day, and many persons will go in the afternoon rather than be caught in the crush of the evening. It was originally intended the crush of the evening. It was originally intended to bring the fair to a close this evening, but it has been decided to lengthen the time by two days and not close the sales until Saturday night. One of the features last evening was the exhibition by W. J. Leonard of his bullet and sabre proof shield in the rifle range. It was tested with heavy ammunition and sabres and bayonets. The marksmen's contests in the rifle range attract much attention.

The flower nooth, which was in charge of Mrs. Raymond Hongland last evening, was adorned by fine paims lent by Dr. S. Fleet Speir. The music last evening included several popular selections. Many chances have been sold for the $1,500 naphtha launch.

HE SAYS SHE THREW FORKS AND DISHES AT RIM.

Mrs. Mary Knurck is seeking limited divorce from John Knurck on the grounds of cruelty and abandonment. The case came up in the City Court yesterday on a motion for alimony and counsel fees. The facts developed were that the parties to lived at No. 102 Covert-st. They have five children, Mrs. Knurck alleges that her husband has abandoned her five times since May 8, 1894, remaining away days at a time. He has knocked her down and kicked her, she deposes, and has threatened to knock out her brains. He earns from $29 to $29 to knock out her brains. He earns from $29 to $20 a week, but has only given her $2.50 in the last fortnight for the support of herself and children. She asserts that he has called her vile names and has said he cared more for another woman than for her. The husband, in his answer, sets forth that his wife is a perfect virago and a woman of violent temper. He admits striking her, but only in self-defence. He avers that she has threatened to kill him, and has thrown dishes, knives and forks at him, and has repeatedly struck him in the face, from no cause. He denies having threatened her life, and says his wife refused to sew or wash for him, and he had to sleep on a lounge or endure "the tortures of the danned" from her tongue. The sum of $5 counsel fee and $7 a week alimony was allowed.

GATHERED ABOUT THE TOWN.

MARGARET SHEEHAN NOT GUILTY OF MUR-DER.

The Grand Jury yesteriay failed to find an indictment against Margaret Sheehaa for murder, who a week ago shot her brother at their bome in Yorktown. The woman showed that she shot her brother in self-defence, after he had abused her and threatened to kill her. Her brother was intoxicated at the time. He had on several occasions threatened her life. On the day of he murder he came late the house and found fault with his dinner, and told his sister that if she did not give him a better meal he would kill her. He followed up his threat by picking up a cane and striking her with it. He then tried to choke her. She ran into her father's bedroom, and, picking up a revolver, shot her brother dead. Margaret is locked up in the County Jail and when the decision of the Grand Jury is sent to Judge Mills on Saturlay a motion will be made by her lawyer to release her from custody. The woman showed that she shot her brother yesterday was something of a surprise, Colonel H.

H. Abernethy, commanding, was asked last night for an explanation of the matter. He said the resignations were given on his advice. He also said that there had been unpleasant feeling in the company for some time, and as it caused a lack of discipline he thought a change of officers might prove beneficial. He did not know who was responsible for the trouble; it was merely his duty to deal with the condition as he found it. He believes that Captain Lampert will be succeeded by

SHOT BY A HUNTER.

NEWTOWN. Theodore Spath, a farmer of Laurel Hill, is dying at his home from the effects of a charge of buckshot fired into his face yesterday by an unknown Italian whom he ordered off his farm. The Italian, with several other hunters, was looking for game on the Spaeth farm. The was looking for game on the Spatch farm. The elder Spatch ordered the intruders off. The unknown Italian levelled his gun at Spatch. The son of the latter spoke up and the hunter turned around and fired the contents of the gun into young Spatch's face. The man escaped. It Hinkson was summoned. Most of the shot has been taken out of Spatch's face, but he is unable to leave his bed. Justice Monteverde has issued a warrant for the arrest of the Italian. Constable Radden says he will have no trouble in finding the Italian.

FRENCH CHILDREN HOLD A FESTIVAL

The Sunday-school children of the French Evantheir schoolhouse, No. 125 West Sixteenth-st., last night. There is a feature in these festivals foreign but most pleasing. The church gives four festivals a year. At Christmas, Easter and midsummer the little ones all receive presents. At Thanksgiving the children bring their Thanksgiving offerings, to the children bring their Thanksgiving offerings, to be distributed among their less fortunate friends. Last night each cuild brought some small gift wrapped up in a paper bag, and gave it up with a gentle "merci" to the recipient at the door. Some came with a big big, carried by three or four. This probably held a turkey or a chicken or two. All were to be distributed among the sick and dis-abled in the French Hospital, the Hospital for Crippied Children and by the Swiss Benevolent Sa-clety.

Among those busy in the schoolroom, which looked bright on every side, but especially where the great tables at the head were loaded down with the offerings of the children, were the pastor, the Rev. L. Granlienard; E. Twyeffort, superintendent, and the secretary, L. Bichsel. The festival opened by all singing the "Goria in Excelsia" in French, and then the children, helped by some of their older friends, pleased everybody by a choice programme of music and recitations.
